Biography

Carolyn Latanision has been distinguished with invitational memberships to national societies including The National Watercolor Society, Hudson Valley Art Association, Whiskey Painters of America, and National Association of Women Artists. The Pennsylvania Watercolor Society has honored her with inclusion in their Sylvan Grouse Guild. Catharine Lorillard Wolfe Art Club in NYC has four times awarded her their Medal of Honor for Watercolor at the National Arts Club. She is a Copley Master in the Copley Society of Art, Boston and a member of Rockport Art Association. She has also exhibited with The American Watercolor Society and Boston Guild of Artists. Her awards are numerous, and her work is included in more than 30 corporate collections.

Boston Museum of Science and Massachusetts Institute of Technology have both published her work. Most recently, Schiffer Publishing, Ltd. has published her work in 100 Artists of New England. Rockport Publishers has included her work in Painting Light and Shadow, International Artists Publications has highlighted her work in 100 Ways to Paint Still Life as well as 100 Ways to Paint Figures. Watercolor Magazine has featured her work as well

People and architecture figure prominently in Latanision's work and in both cases urban scenes are frequently depicted. Watercolor is a favored medium because of the continuing and interesting challenges it presents, although Latanision is accomplished in other media as well.

A native of Bethlehem, Pennsylvania, memorializing the Bethlehem Steel Company plant in watercolor, oil, casein and also photographs, is an ongoing project.
